ADDRESS OF THE NATIONAL BANK

OF MEMPHIS

To the People of the United States

One year ago the bloody civil war that closed the era of our country's history

The general and soldiers on both sides met on the field of battle, and the world was shocked by the example of magnanimous feeling when the blood had ceased to flow, that was as well as the loss of life, the loss of the loss of liberty and independence.

The soldiers who were were given to the vanquished and lost, with a just appreciation of the noble courage and sense of patriotism which they displayed during the four years' struggle, were justly paid that they were kindred race, and the glory which their fathers had made them earn.

They knew what all the world now knew, that the South had won the war, and that the Confederacy had been established.

But the Confederacy, through

ambitious politicians had lost the war, and the South had

lost the war.

But the Confederacy, through

lost the war, and the South had

lost the war.

But the Confederacy, through

lost the war, and the South had

lost the war.

But the Confederacy, through

lost the war, and the South had

lost the war.

But the Confederacy, through

lost the war, and the South had

lost the war.

But the Confederacy, through

lost the war, and the South had

lost the war.

But the Confederacy, through

lost the war, and the South had

lost the war.

lost the war, and the South had

lost the war.

lost the war, and the South had

lost the war.

lost the war, and the South had

lost the war.
